

ABSTRACT

In a process for the production of half-tubes or tubes of a recuperative waste gas heat exchanger using a precision casting process, the half-tubes or tubes consisting of a high-
5 temperature-resistant metallic material have a plurality of elliptical openings passing through their surface.